City Council orders two zoning studies

By Lynne Locke

Upland City Council has ordered city staff to do two studies of the southern sections of the city.

Proposed apartment development has been of special concern to residents of the new single-family development at the southeast corner of San Antonio Avenue and Ninth Street.

Apartments already exist at the northeast corner, but new single-family residents are opposed to construction of more apartments in the area which they say already has too many people and too much traffic.

The council voted 4-1 to delay construction of an apartment development 60 days until a study can be made of the two-block area bounded by Euclid and San Antonio avenues and two sets of railroad tracks.

An urgency ordinance passed by the council will prohibit Loren Phillips and Associates from beginning construction of 10 four-unit apartments on 2.8 acres east of the existing apartments.

Councilman Hal Bailin opposed the urgency ordinance and commented that reviewing zoning when the land developer is ready to begin construction is "inappropriate."

Bailin said changing the zoning on a 2.8-acre parcel would produce a small single - family residential island in the midst of apartments.

The property has been zoned for multiple-family residential for a number of years and apartments were constructed in the area long before the new single-family homes.

Other development on the block includes a church and a planned home for senior citizens.

Councilwoman Ina Petokas supported the study to determine if the parcel is suitable for single-family residential development and noted the single-family homes recently constructed have proved to be successful low-cost homes.

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said the area did not seem appropriate for single-family development but noted a lower density multiple-family development might be possible.

Planning Director Bill Young said the proposed apartment development is substantially lower density than would be permitted under the present zoning. The apartments would provide 14.3 units per acre compared to the allowable maximum of 30 units per acre.

The council also requested a study of development in the southeast section of the city.

McCarthy noted special concern about the combination of residential and commercial zoning and said development as zoning indicates would produce a mish-mash.

Commercial and apartment development would also cause traffic problems because of the narrow streets, he said.

The issue of development in the southeast section was raised by a request for a zone change from multiple-family residential to commercial at the southwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Ninth Street. An antique store is planned for the site.

In another zoning matter Bailin suggested adoption of a "holding" category in the general plan to indicate sites which may be used for parks or schools in the future.

The city has designated several sites for parks without having an actual timetable for development or even any certainty the property will actually be used for a park.

The situation arises when cities try to plan ahead and designate park sites before all land is already committed to houses.

Recently residents have opposed changing such park designations to other uses even though other parks have been provided in the area.

The Planning Department has been reviewing such proposed park sites and will consider changing several park and school designations at the Planning Commission meeting 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Bailin noted a "holding" designation would be helpful to indicate that a site might be developed as a park in the future.

The holding designation would also prevent residents from believing the park is a definite plan, he said.

Upland employes to vote on strike issue

Upland city employes will participate in a second vote by mail to determine whether to strike over the city's offer of a 5 per cent pay raise rather than the 6.8 per cent union members requested.

The first vote taken Nov. 16 resulted in a 39-25 vote in favoring of striking, but the vote is not considered conclusive because approximately 20 per cent of the union's 8 members did not vote.

Ballots have been mailed to all members of Local 660, Services Employes International Union, AFL-CIO, which represents Upland's miscellaneous employes who are mostly clerical and maintenance workers.

Once votes are counted (balloting deadline is Dec. 1), the county AFL-CIO unit must approve the strike. If the county unit sanctions the strike, other AFL-CIO affiliates in the county will support the local group's strike efforts - increasing the chances that the strike will be successful.

The union had first asked for a flat dollar raise so all employes would benefit equally rather than higher paid employes benefiting more than lower paid employes.

Upland city management refused the flat dollar raise because it blurs distinctions between employes pay grades and offered a 3 per cent increase.

The city later increased its offer to 5 per cent, but the union is holding out for a 6.8 per cent increase retroactive to July 1, 1976 and another raise Jan. 7, 1977 equal to the cost-of-living increase from July through December.

Other city employes, including management, firefighters and police officers, have accepted a 5 per cent raise.

The city plans to continue normal operations if the local does call a strike and will hire additional staff or contract with private firms for needed assistance, according to a memorandum circulated to employes.

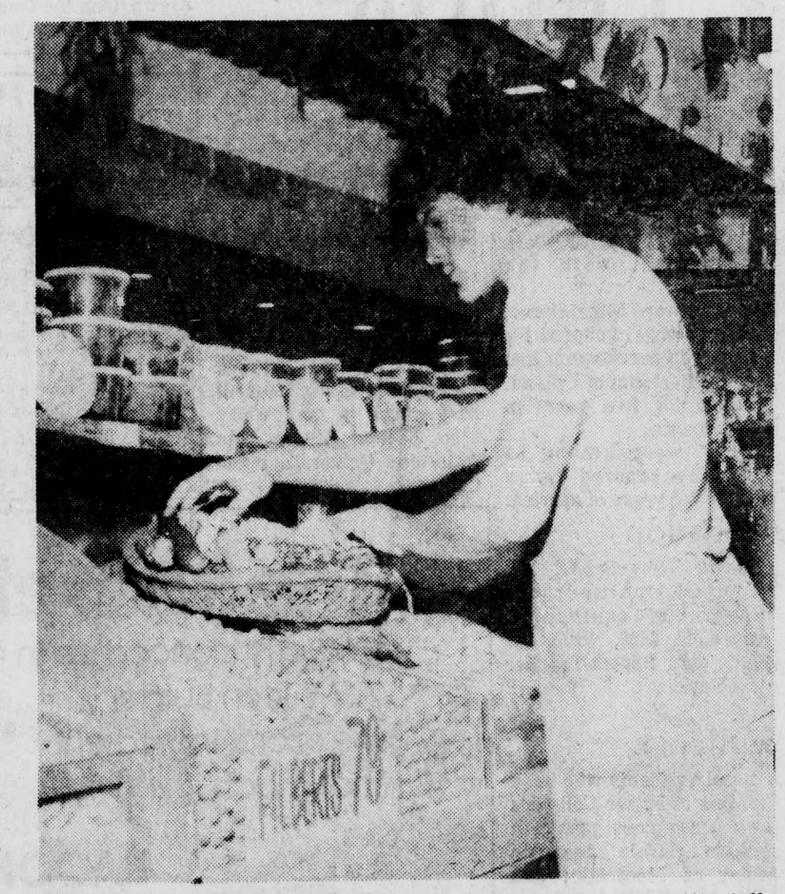

The memorandum advises employes "that strikes by public employes are illegal in the state of California. Therefore any employe who participates in a strike is engaging in an illegal act."

Employes are warned that those who strike or "abandon their position" without permission of supervisors may lose seniority, vacation, sick leave and other wages and benefits and can be disciplined, which may include "permanent dismissal from city employment."

The memorandum states, "All employes including union members have the right to work, and this right will be protected by the city. Employes are encouraged to report immediately any incidents or attempts to interfere with the free exercise of their right to work."

Would have affected local students

Committee halts unification proposal

By Lynne Locke

A school unification proposal that would have affected some 800 teenagers in the foothill communities of Upland and Cucamonga has been halted — perhaps permanently — by the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization.

The committee concluded its fifth unification study session Nov. 17 by voting against continued study of several proposals to unify the Ontario - Montclair School District (MSD) with three high schools from the Chaffey Joint Union High chool District (CJUHSD).

Some 800 Upland and Cucamonga students attend Montclair and Chaffey high schools since Upland and Alta Loma high schools are too crowded to handle all the students in the local communities.

The number of students bused to the other high schools is increasing as new homes are built and occupied in the foothill communities.

The county schools committee had listed a number of possibilities for Upland and Alta Loma - Cucamonga - Etiwanda if the OMSD unification proposal was approved.

One proposal would provide for similar unification by Upland High School and Mt. Baldy and Upland school districts and unification of Alta Loma High School and Central, Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda schools districts.

Another proposal would have joined both high schools and all six elementary school districts into a unified district. A third proposal would have joined Upland and Alta Loma high schools into a high school district and left the elementary school districts separate as they are now.

At least one Upland School District trustee had noted that — as a citizen and parent — he favors local school control and would be interested in exploring unification of the Upland schools.

But the Central School District Board of Trustees officially opposed the unification proposal, apparently on grounds of problems the high school district would suffer rather than problems for the elementary school district.

In earlier study sessions the county committee had seemed to be working toward choosing the most promising proposal for further study, presentation to the state Board of Education, and then decision by voters in the districts considering unification.

That pattern of action was canceled by the committee's vote to drop the entire matter. The vote came afater little open discussion or debate among committee members and was, in effect, a unanimous 9-0-1 against unification. (Richard Pearson, who is president of the O-M board, abstained from voting.)

O-M board members, staff and citizens had all pointed to a coordinated curriculum for students as the best advantage of unification.

A coordinated curriculum from kindergarten tough 12th grade would provide a step-by-step sequence of education, the proponents said noting that policies could be set on a district-wide level so students would face uniform expectations throughout their educational experience.

School board members and administrators from the Chaffey Joint Union High School District opposed the unification which would have divided the district down the middle and taken all of the district's central administration facilities.

High school officials feared the cost of replacing the central facilities would have to be borne entirely by the citizens of northern and outlying areas of the district.

Administrators were also concerned with the future of the 800 students attending Montclair and Chaffey High Schools. The students might have been allowed to attend the high schools on interdistrict transfer agreements with a complicated tuition agreement.

Texas were an important consideration for both the unifying districts and other districts. The unified O-M district board of trustees would have been allowed to collect an additional 52 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. High school taxes for Foothill residents might also rise because of the cost of replacing central facilities and perhaps of being forced to build a new high school.

All of the spectulations about coordinated curriculums, 800 students without schools, and tax hikes were ended when the committee decided to halt the unification study.

But the Ontario - Montclair district has several options besides letting the unification matter fade into history.

The board can ask the county committee to reconsider the unification proposal, can wait and resumbit the proposal later, and can circulate petitions and go directly to the state Board of Education, by passing the county committee.

If the board follows any of those steps, local residents may still see changes in the local high school - and perhaps elementary school - system.

ANSWER: You first secure the necessary forms from the Upland City Clerk. All claims and demands against the city must be presented in writing, in the form of invoices, statements of account or otherwise, and should clearly show the nature of the claim or demand, by whom presented and when incurred; and when consisting of more than one item should be fully itemized. Claims and demands for damages, and all claims and demands not arising upon judgment or definite contract with the city, must also be verified by the claimant or someone on his or her behalf as being true and correct. After being approved by the council, they will be paid by warrants drawn upon the treasurer of the city in accordance with the laws of the state.

Anderson, Silva, Jefferson

Local trio is honored

Alta Loma High School defensive standouts Mark Anderson and Dave Silva join flashy Ontario running back Tommy Jefferson to first-team berths on the Coaches' All-Hacienda League Football Team announced today.

Anderson, a rugged 6-foot-3, 182-pound junior, starred at defensive end for the Braves, accounting for 14 quarterback sacks during the campaign. He is also credited with 12 unassisted tackles, 28 assisted tackles and a pair of fumble recoveries.

Silva, 5-9, 165-pound senior, played his safety spot with intensity, piling up 26 unassisted tackles and helping out on 35 more. He also recovered a pair of fumbles and was a Tribe leader in knocking away enemy passes.

Jefferson, the 6-3, 200-pound speedster, earned a spot on the first offensive unit despite his youth. The shifty sophomore averaged 5.5 yards per carry on 874 yards in 158 carries and scored seven touchdowns.

Jefferson is in some select company, having been named to the same backfield with Walnut's Kevin Morgan (HL Most Valuable Player on Offense), San Dimas' Bob Pleasant and Bonita's Sanford Coggins. Morgan, Pleasant and Coggins are seniors.

Morgan nipped Pleasant for the top offensive honor in a special vote, 5-3, after each player drew three ballots apiece in the opening tally. Coggins and Gladstone end Jim Joyce also drew support for the offensive MVP.

Morgan, a 6-0, 182-pounder, has 1,452 yards in 211 trips for a 6.8 average and 19 touchdowns for the season. For good measure, he has caught five passes for 105 yards and another TD.

While Morgan won MVP laureis on offense, it was San Dimas' mobile Sonny La Fargue (6-1, 230) who copped similar honors defensively as a lineman. La Fargue also was picked to the first offensive unit at a guard spot.

Royal Oak's Joe Myers, a 225-pound tackle, also was chosen a two-way performer on the first offensive and defensive units.

Several more Alta Loma and Ontario players were picked to second-team berths.

Braves chosen included flanker Mike Sloan, tackles Jerry Barba and Ron Lister and running back to the offense and linebacker Jim Ellingson and back Rob Ward to the defense.

Jaguar selections were center Sean Severns to the offense plus linebacker Mike Rodriguez and back Larry Cutbirth to the defense.

The Olympians Baton and Drum Corps of Olympic Studios in Cucamonga recently won awards in two parades. The Olympians won the Sweepstakes Trophy in the Alta Loma-Cucamonga Bicentennial Parade as the best baton and drum corps. In addition, the senior Olympians took first place and the junior Olympians second place in the Calico Days Parade. The drum corps also won first place in the musical unit category. Baton leaders shown, from left, are: Debbie Robinson, tiny tots; Gina Springer of Alta Loma, pee wees; Candy Bradley of Upland, juniors, and Sharon Mastin, seniors. The group is 8 years old and is under the direction of Diane Baird Trostle, former California twirling champion. Kevin O'Neill is the percussion instructor.

Upland derailing mule-car memory

One of the last visible reminders of the mule cars which operated along Euclid Avenue late in the 19th century are being removed in Upland.

However, the estimated 3,000 feet of rail in the Euclid Avenue median between Eighth Street and the east-west Southern Pacific tracks just south of Upland City Hall will soon have a new home — at the Orange Empire Trolley Museum in Perris.

Actually, the rails being removed from Euclid Avenue are not the original ones on which the mule cars operated, because the rails have been replaced over the years, Jim Walker, the museum's president, said.

But the Euclid Avenue rail spur was used for excursions as late as the early 1950s, he said.

Furthermore, until about a year ago, the rail spur was used to haul freight from two orange-packing houses, Walker added. However, the two east-west rail lines which cut across Euclid Avenue now serve the needs of the remaining packing houses, he said.

The rails in the Euclid Avenue median are being removed through the efforts of up to 25 volunteers.

School works toward equality

A volunteer committee of administrative, counseling and teaching staff at Upland High School is attempting to comply with the provisions of the Title IX section of the Educational Amendments of 1972, which prohibits sex discrimination in any educational activity which receives federal financial assistance.

The Upland High School committee, composed of principal Dave Campbell, counselors Betty Palmer and Norm Woods, and teachers Joanne Dixon, Pete Raisbeck, Margaret Steinbrugge and Fay Zuccato, is responding to a self-evaluation report compiled during the spring of last year. The report isolated the areas of non-compliance at each of the district high schools and recommended necessary modifications.

Under Title IX, schools must insure equitable educational, social and athletic opportunities for all students, as well as equitable hiring practices and working conditions for all employes. Many of the required revisions will be in the area of athletics, where adjustments must be made to provide equal opportunities.

Facts About High Blood Pressure

By Dr. W.P. Helzer, D.C.

I have recently been asked to comment on the causes and effects of high blood pressure.

Dr. Wes Helzer, D.C.

High blood pressure is primarily caused by a narrowing of the inner diameter of the blood vessels. This narrowing is due largely to nervous imbalance or tension which causes the muscular layers of the large vessels to contract.

This process sets in motion a chain of events. In order to supply an adequate amount of blood to all parts of the body, the heart must work harder, and through this constant overwork the heart muscle gradually enlarges. After a certain amount of enlargement the heart muscle becomes inefficient and is unable to maintain pressure sufficient for adequate circulation.

How can this enlargement affect other areas of the body?

Other parts and organs of the body deteriorate and become diseased because of inadequate blood supply. This chain of events is a self-perpetuating process inasmuch as the large vessels respond to higher pressures by thickening their walls to accommodate the increased pressure, and so cause further narrowing of their internal diameter, with still higher pressure resulting. The patient now has hypertension with arteriosclerosis which is a calcified hardening of the arteries, and in addition, very probably heart damage.

From the foregoing it can be readily seen how important it is to maintain blood pressure at a normal level, and to correct the tendency toward high blood pressure as soon as it becomes apparent.

What can the modern Doctor of Chiropractic do to correct this condition?

Chiropractic manipulation is the most effective means to this end. A dramatic drop of 20 to 30 points in pressure often occurs after only a few treatments, even in very advanced cases. Periodic Chiropractic manipulation will assist in maintaining blood pressure at a lowered level and consequently will add useful years to your life.

After all, your vitality and youthfulness is directly related to the efficiency of the circulatory system of your body.

Poetry contest

A grand prize of $1000 is being offered in a new poetry competition sponsored by the World of Poetry, a monthly newsletter for poets. In addition, there are 49 cash and merchandise awards.

DRUMMIN' ALONG — Louie Bellson, who has performed at Disneyland many times in the past, will be joined with his wife, Pearl Bailey, 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday on a unique floating stage on Disneyland's "Rivers of America."

'Scrooge'

Chaffey College's Christmas gift this year will be a planetarium staging of the Walt Disney production "Scrooge" on the first two Tuesdays of December.

The adaptation from Dickens' "Christmas Carol" will be presented in the Daniel B. Milliken Planetarium at 6:15 p.m. - 7 p.m. - 7:45 p.m. on Dec. 7 and 14. There will be no admission charge. Reservations must be made early. In the Disney version, Bill Lee has the pivotal role of Scrooge McDuck and serves as the narrator.

The story of "Scrooge" will be dramatized in terms of color slide projections against a backdrop of winter constellations moving around the planetarium dome.

The Dickens classic, first published in 1834, is now as much a part of the traditional Yule celebration as Christmas stockings, hollywreaths and plum pudding. The spooky tale of the miser who reformed is well suited to the Disney format involving Uncle Scrooge, with Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse.

The art work is done by the planetarium staff.

Reservations for the evening programs must be made by no later than 3 p.m. of the same day. The telephone numbers are 987-1737, 822-4484, 735-0242, extension 275.

Agricultural Missions

Students learning to feed world hungry

Ten Claremont international theological students are in Rome learning how to develop and administer programs to help feed the world's starving.

Sponsored by the School of Theology at Claremont, the studies are held at the Center for Social Training and Action in Developing Regions, located at Rome's Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas.

It is the first time in history that Protestants and Catholics have studied side by side in a Vatican school.

The purpose of the program, "Agrimissio" (Agricultural Missions), is to train church leaders in solutions to the growing problem of food deficits and to promote rural development in the food importing countries of the world. (Only three are exporters — United States, Canada, and Australia/New Zealand.)

The Claremont phase of the program is supervised by Dr. C. Dean Freudenberger, associate professor of international development studies and ecumenics.

The Rome exchange of Claremont students is made possible by a grant from the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis. Founder and President of Agrimissio is Msgr. Luigi G. Ligutti, Rome. The agency promotes closer collaboration between rural church workers and the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) of the United Nations.

The studies include courses in the complex field of rural development: cooperatives, land reform, nutrition, health, adult education, crop and livestock production, and tropical environmental management.

The philosophical basis for the thrust is expressed in the joint Right to Food resolution passed by the U.S. House and Senate Sept. 25, 1976, declaring "every person in this country and throughout the world has the right to food."

The congressional action resulted from educational work by Bread for the World, an ecumenical citizen's movement whose president is Eugene Carson Blake, former general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

Bread for the World is supported by a broad spectrum of religious leaders including the heads of Notre Dame University, the United Church of Christ, the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, U.S. Catholic Conference, United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., Reformed Church, United Methodist Church, Rabbinical Assembly, and the Southern Baptist Convention.

Freudenberger in the 1950s and 1960s was an agricultural missionary in Zaire and later food development trainer of Peace Corps personnel. Before coming to Claremont, he was agricultural programs secretary of the board of Global Ministries of the United Methodist Church, and has written a popular paperback "Christian Reponsibility in a Hungry World." He will make an evaluation visit to Rome in December.

The 10 Claremonters will return to the School of Theology next spring, to be replaced by another group next fall. Following graduation the students expect to return to their home countries, qualified to help their nations with rural development.

SECTION 2. The area to be restudied is more particularly described hereinafter as follows:

All vacant R-3 zoned properties located between the AT&SF Railroad right-of-way on the South and Pacific Electric Railroad right-of-way on the North extending between Euclid Avenue on the East and San Antonio Avenue on the West.

SECTION 3. Any multiple family use or development such as a subdivision, record of survey, site plan review or issuance of building permit or business license shall not be approved in the area specified above without first obtaining the approval of the City Council.

SECTION 4. No change in the use of the area designated above shall be made without first obtaining the approval of the City Council.

SECTION 5. The above requirements contained in Sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 shall apply only until hearings proposed by the City Council relative to the uses permitted in the area have been completed and a final ordinance is adopted regulating the land use in said area; however, in no event shall this interim ordinance have any force or effect for more than sixty (60) days from the date of its adoption unless the effect of the ordinance is extended in pursuance to Section 65858 of the Government Code of the State of California.

The Council hereby declares that it would have adopted this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or portion thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, phrases, or portions be declared invalid or unconstitutional. If for any reason this ordinance or any part thereof shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, then all other provisions thereof shall remain valid and enforceable.

SECTION 8. This ordinance is urgently required and urgently necessary for the preservation of public health, safety and general welfare. Health Tips

The vegetarian diet

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

A vegetarian diet is nothing new — for centuries certain religions have advocated a non-meat diet.

There are several reasons many people are now changing to vegetarianism. Not only is meat the most expensive portion of the food budget, it does contain large amounts of saturated fats which have been connected with arteriosclerosis and heart disease. It takes many pounds of grain to produce a single pound of meat; this same grain could be used more ecologically as food for man.

Vegetarian diets range from the strict vegetarian diet to a diet that occasinally includes some fish and/or poultry. The lacto - vegetarian and lacto - ovo vegetarian diet fall in between.

In the strict vegetarian or vegan diet, the individuals eats vegetables, fruits, nuts, seeds and grains. No animal products, including milk, are consumed. Since vitamin B-12 is found only in animal sources, thie diet is low in this vitamin. If the diet is deficient for a long period of time there may be irreversible changes in the nervous sytem. Lack of vitamin B-12 causes a type of anemia which is easily treated by addition of the vitamin to the diet. The vegan diet should be supplemeneted with this missing nutrient.

Since no dairy products are used the vegan diet may be low in calcium, riboflavin, and vitamin D. Iodine and iron also may be low. The lower levels of nutrient intake provided by the vegan diet may have a detrimental effect on the health of pregnant women, infants, children and teenagers.

To get balanced nutrition, the individual would have to conscientiously and scientifically plan the diet to include a wide variety of foods, consume the foods allowed in sufficient quantities and in complementary combinations. Such planning generally requires considerable knowledge in the area of food composition and nutrition.

In the lacto-vegetarian diet, milk products, including cheeses, yogurt and kefir, are used in addition to the basic diet of the strict vegetarian. Milk products provide the needed B vitamins, calcium, vitamin and protein but are still too low in iron. It is important on this diet to consume enough dairy foods along with adequate amounts of the other foods in order to get all of the needed nutrients. If eggs are added to this diet, the individual is following the lacto-ovo vegetarian diet. There is an adequate distribution of nutrients if foods are combined properly.

The addition of fish and poultry to a vegetarian diet provides more variety of food, but since these sources of protein are low in iron this diet also may result in an iron deficiency if the right choices or combinations are not made.

With careful selections all levels of the vegetarian diet can be adquate. The more restricted the diet the more likely that it will be unbalanced and lacking immportant nutrients.

If you should decide to change to a vegetarian diet, become knowledgeable about the nutrients, especially the different kinds, amounts and combinations of proteins available in various foods.

In making such a change, you generally should reduce the high sugar and high fat foods that contain too few nutrients for the number of calories. Substitute the carbohydrates in the form of whole grains to keep up the calorie level of the diet. Replace the meat with meat substitues such as milk products, eggs, nuts, seeds and beans. In order to get the needed vitamin B-12 include enough of the dairy foods or use a supplement or food fortified witht his vitamin.

Young women and children should be certain they are receiving enough iron for their higher iron needs. Good iron sources in a vegetarian diet plan are whole grain cereals, dark green leafy vegetables, dried fruits and egg yolk. Using an iron pot and skillet is another easy way to increase iron intake. In some cases iron enriched foods and iron supplements may be needed.

There are resources available to help plan a balanced vegetarian diet. Seek your doctor's advice or consult a dietitian in one of the various agencies (your local heart association, for example).

Students learning (Concluded)

serious problems," Dr. Freudenberger says, yet it is one of the most readily soluble. If people can apply the resources at hand with what they already know about tropical and monsoon agricultures, the world can be on its way out of the woods in 20 years, he believes.

"This is the encouraging part about Claremont's involvement with Agrimissio. Our young, upcoming leaders, and those with whom they study in Rome, have the means to turn the tide."

The 10 Claremont students now in Rome are: Daniel Chetti, India; Susan and Randy Hansen, Uruguay; the Rev. and Mrs. John Nyesi, Kenya; Tevita Puloka, Kingdom of Tonga; David and Macrina Geconcillo, Philippines; Megil Angel, El Salvadore; and Salim Sharif, India.

Many developing countries are still handicapped by colonial throw-back traditions of producing rubber, tea, copra, cocoa, coffee, jute and hides for northern hemisphere nations. The Rome studies include gradual conversion of land use so that these former colonial territories, now independent nations, can become less dependent on food imports and more able to feed themselves.

A crucial area is the Sahel, a broad strip of former French colonies across mid-Africa below the Sahara. There the desert is expanding nearly 30 miles southward a year, partly through overgrazing, partly through faulty cultivation methods that improperly expose earth areas to the equatorial sun, causing laterization, a hardening process turning much soil into "ironstone."

In addition, the Sahel suffered a record drought 1968-73. A growing rat population gets too much of the still inadequate production. In Senegal, on the west coast of Africa's bulge, rats last year consumed 40 per cent of the food crop because of a lack of sufficient grain storage facilities.

The School of Theology at Claremont is taking a lead in the rural development movement in theological education, not only because of Christian compassion but also because churches are, in many remote areas, the only concerned centers, according to Dr. Freudenberger. They operate in communities where government officials seldom go.

"The Churches in Africa and Asia," he added, "provide ready-made focal points for practical answers to the plea of Jesus, 'I was hungry and you gave me food.'"

Tax hints

Reporting sale of real estate

By The California Society of Certified Public Accountants

If you are contemplating a sale of real estate or other property, you may choose one of three alternatives for collecting the sale proceeds and reporting any gain on your personal federal income tax return.

1. If in the year of sale you are in a low tax bracket, you may elect to receive 100 per cent of the sales proceeds and report 100 per cent of the gain. You would then have the proceeds, less any applicable tax, immediately at your disposal.

2. If you are in a low tax bracket but you anticipate substantially higher income in future years; you may choose to recognize the entire gain in the year of the sale, even though you will be receiving payments on a note over several succeeding years. The primary drawback of this approach is that you will have to pay tax immediately on proceeds you have not yet received.

3. A third alternative would be to spread the receipt of the proceeds and the recognition of the gain over several years. This can only be done if no more than 30 per cent of the sales price is received in the year of the sale. This 30 per cent limitation includes both the down payment and any principal payments received in the year of the sale. The balance of the sales price can be represented by a promissory note payable over several years. A proportionate share of the gain would be reported each year as the payments are received. Reporting the gain in this manner may result in the gain rather taxed in lower tax brackets over several years rather than in a high bracket in one year. CAVEAT: If you are relieved of a mortgage in excess of your tax basis, you would have additional proceeds in the year of the sale.

Gas prices rise slightly

IT'S A TURKEY — Here's one turkey that doesn't have anything to worry about this Thanksgiving. It's a turkey fish (Pteriois volitans) and it lives at Sea World in San Diego shown here above a camoflauged stone fish, the attractive but venemous turkey fish, common in the Indian and southern Pacific oceans, lives with dozens of other unusual saltwater fish in the park's marine aquarium.

A special fuel gauge survey by the Automobile Club of Southern California indicates that gasoline prices for the Thanksgiving weekend (Nov. 25-28) will be fractionally higher than those reported for the Labor Day weekend.

Of the 304 service stations contacted last week, reports indicate:

— Regular gasoline for the four-day period will average 64.4 cents per gallon, with premium running 68.8 and unleaded 66.8. These figures include projections for self-service stations and self-serve aisles. Regular reportedly will be unchanged over the Labor Day quotation, when premium and unleaded prices averaged 68.7 and 66.7, respectively.

— Specifically, the lowest quotes for regular are 54.9 in Baldwin Park and Long Beach. Premium will be available at 58.3 in Edgemont and unleaded at 57.9 in Baldwin Park, Long Beach, Tulare and West Covina. High highest prices for regular, premium and unleaded are in the mountain resort community of Mammoth Lakes, where one station projects prices of 75.9, 79.9 and 77.9, respectively.

— The lowest regional averages for regular and premium will be at stations in the Covina area, where regular will be going for 60.5 and premium 65.9. Unleaded will average 63.4 at Long Beach area stations. The highest regional averages again are found in the Sierra Nevada, where regular will average 71.7, premium 77.1 and unleaded 74.6.

Motorists may realize a cents a gallon by comparison shopping or by patronizing self-service stations and/or self-serve aisles.

Nearly all stations will be open throughout the four-day period, with most opening between 6 and 8 a.m. and closing between 10 p.m. and midnight. Generally, stations in the metropolitan area will have longer operating hours than those in the outlying regions.

Twenty-one per cent of the stations reporting will be open 24 hours a day throughout the holiday weekend. Twenty per cent will be closed Thanksgiving Day and 5 per cent will be closed Sunday.

Motorists going on long trips are advised to fill their gas tanks before 7 or 8 p.m. Wednesday and Saturday to avoid being caught short. Firm up reservations before starting to lessen the difficulty of finding accommodations along the way.

The Automobile Club of Southern California suggests that drivers limit themselves to no more than seven hours of driving per day. A short rest stop off the highway every two hours is a good idea.

Motorists planning to return home Sunday evening should start early to avoid becoming involved in the late homeward rush.

Be careful.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

This has been an exciting, eventful and, at times, hectic week for me. Weekend! made its initial appearance in our weekly newspapers last week and we hope to continue it as we have in the Progress Bulletin. These newspapers serve the communities of Diamond Bar, La Verne, San Dimas, Montclair, Upland and Alta Loma-Cucamonga, and I feel an explanation may be due their readers. I rather burst upon them with an abbreviated column last week with no fanfare, no explanation of what, why or how. So, briefly put, I wander around to restaurants and nightclubs in the Pomona Valley to check out what's new in regards to the dining out experience, and I talk about it. Sometimes I run across some interesting people. . .so I talk about them, too!

And have I got a couple of neat people to talk about this week!

Though most of the entertainment in Valley nightspots is rock oriented dance groups, we do have some diversification. We also have big bands, country music, belly dancers, organ and piano bars, "oldies" groups, Mariachis. . .All singing, dancing, performing, "doing their thing" to keep you entertained. Now add a harpist and a yodeler! Although they are at almost opposite ends of the musical spectrum, Priscilla and Otis, new acquaintances as of this week, share an enthusiasm toward their music and a desire to share it with you.

Priscilla's "thing" is the harp. She plays it marvelously during the dinner hour at Dock of the Bay, 1504 Foothill Blvd, La Verne. I went to hear her last Friday evening, anticipating a fine meal to the accompaniment of delicate harp music.

Though quite young, Priscilla has had considerable experience playing with symphony orchestras in the L.A. area. But please don't get the impression that sonatas and minuets fill her musical menu. Last Friday night I heard her play "Shadow of Your Smile," "Love Story," and even Charlie Rich's "Behind Closed Doors," all beautifully rendered.

Now the scene shifts to the Band Box of Holt Blvd. in Montclair. It's Monday night and Jack Reeves is putting on a show for the country music fans there.

My purpose in being there was to meet Otis Roy, former head custodian at Pomona's Marshall Junior High School, who does a bit of wandering around himself yodeling his way through country music clubs in the area. I was interested in hearing the singing style of this man who is called "Pomona's Yodeling Custodian."

It wasn't long before Oits was up there yodeling "California Blues" in the style of the legendary Jimmie Rodgers. He followed that with "Waiting For A Train," and the crowd loved it. Otis, by the way, has won contests several different places, including the Palomino Club in L.A., and a couple of years back Otis was the subject of CBS TV'S "It Takes All Kinds." He's a country boy at heart and loves what he's doing. The only problem is that I don't know where to tell you he'll be yodeling next. Could be at Joe's Rendezvous, The Diamond Bar, Club Newburgh in Azusa, or...?

While we were talking, Jack Reeves went back on stage to do his impressions of country singers. I heard his Johnny Cash, Ernest Tubbs, Gene Autry and Hank Snow, but I never did hear him do his cousin, a pretty fair picker himself called Glen Campbell!

Scouting council honors volunteers

Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council culminated fall activities with a July Fourth celebration in mid-November during its annual Recognition Dinner at the Pomona National Golf Club in Walnut.

Red, white and blue decor provided a patriotic backdrop for the event, with a theme of "Salute to America's 200th Birthday," presented by Julia Arri, council board member, who served as emcee for the evening.

The council president commended the many volunteers who haved helped financially as well as those who have provided time and talents to make the council's camp on Palomar Mountain a reality. She welcomed Bill Kime of the Pomona Seabees into her special "President Pat's Palomar Pals" for his contribution of skills to the campsite. Amos Randall, a Pomona architect, was feted for his involvement in creating drawings of the master plans for the Palomar and El Potrero campsites. A special plaque with an etching of the Palomar troop house, for which Randall drew the plans, was presented to him. Dee Brown, a tile mason from Colton, volunteered his skills to install the tile in the showers and bath in the Palomar troop house and he received a Girl Scout plaque.

Capital Campaign recognitions highlighted the event. Kaiser Steel Corp. of Fontana, represented by Ted Chinn, supervisor of community relations, was commended for its support. Betty Sanford of Griswold's in Claremont was on hand to accept a plaque for its donations, while Carolyn Soper of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan, accepted a plaque on behalf of her firm. John Davis accepted recognition for the Lion's Club of Cucamonga and Jim Hamilton for support to the council by the Whittier Host Lion's Club.

Newspapers that assist the council through coverage of Girl Scout related stories were commended for their interest in Scouting and in Spanish Trails Council. George Collier, city editor of the Daily Report, was recognized for his continual support and cooperation to inform the public about Scouting in the community.

Jim Garliepp, who recently became president of the West End United Way, worked with the council providing support and practical information during the time he was chairman of the budget panel. He was awarded a plaque.

Capt. Him Hoskins of the Ontario Salvation Army, opened his facility in South Ontario to Inter Group Out Reach (IGOR) to set up operations of this important community program. He was thanked by the council with a Girl Scout plaque for providing the location for myriad summer activities for youngsters in the community.

Gerry Thompson a volunteer in Pomona and a council Los Amigos member, is a working partner in the Action Printing Co. which produces much of the council's commercial printing. For her advice and help over the years, a plaque was presented to her with the council's "thanks."

Scouting volunteers were thanked with various awards, presented by Spanish Trails during the evening, to individuals who have provided time and service to the council itself, through troop, neighborhood, district or council level contributions.

A Thanks Badge, scouting's highest award to honor an individual member of the Girl Scout movement, is reserved for recognition of outstanding varied services benefitting the council over a period of years.

Poland is subject of travel film

"Immortal Poland" will be the second presentation of the Claremont Travel Film Series on Friday, Nov. 26. The film will be shown at 2 and 8 p.m. at Garrison Theater in Claremont.

Filmed in the land of Chopin, Paderewski and Copernicus, the film traces the 1,000-year history of a people who survived near extermination in WW II to become a vital force in contemporary Europe.

Included will be coverage of Warsaw, Cracow, the Baltic coast, lakes and forests, Tatra Mountains, Upper Silesia, Lower Silesia and Wroclaw.

Emphasis will be on the life of the Poles today in both the major industrial centers and the scenic and historic regions. Education, industry, crafts, customs, history and the land will be blended into a film and narrative that reveals the immortality of Poland.

The film was produced by Jonathan Hagar, a former reporter, whose travels have taken him from Iceland to the Sahara and through more than 30 countries on four continents.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is a benefit project for the development fund of Pomona College. Chairman is Mrs. Milo Tigner. She is assisted by Mrs. Wesley Leighton, ticket sales; Mrs. Roy Miller, treasurer and Esther Ballew, Mrs. Charles Gill, Mrs. Earle Jones, Mrs. Jackson Niebrugge and Mrs. Stuart Wheeler.

Single tickets for "Immortal Poland" may be purchased at the box office for each performance. Season tickets are available for the afternoon series only.

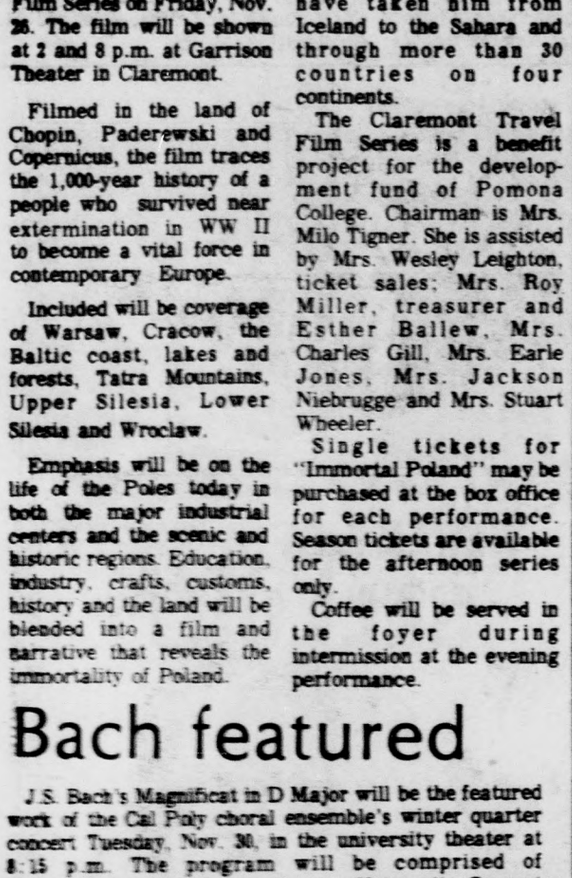

Coffee will be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance.

Bach featured

J.S. Bach's Magnificat in D Major will be the featured work of the Cal Poly choral ensemble's winter quarter concert Tuesday, Nov. 30, in the university theater at 8:15 p.m. The program will be comprised of performances by both the 80-voice University Concert Choir and the 20-voice Kellogg Chamber Singers directed by Dr. Charles Edward Lindsley, associate professor of music.

The Chamber Singers will present a varied program of madrigals, motets and part-songs from all musical periods, sacred and secular, including some Christmas music. The Concert Choir will present the Magnificat with full Baroque orchestra and organ accompaniment.

Soloists in the Magnificat will be Melanie Chambers, soprano, West Covina; Janet Scinto, mezzo-soprano, Claremont; Mary Heyler, contralto, Pomona.
